

NATURE SMILES ON PRETTY 'JAP' PLAY

Audience Approves It, Too, for Lyrics Have Literary Quality, Music Is Pleasing and the Setting Charming.

OH! THOSE JAPANESE DRINKS

"It is So Delightfully Oriental," Says a Woman of the Garden Atop the Big Garden, as She Juggles a Cherry in a Liquid.

After having been ungracious to "Otoyo" on two successive occasions, nature made such amends last night that the Madison Square Japanese Roof Garden was opened under ideal conditions.

The charm of the out-of-door performance of a pleasing and picturesque Japanese operetta was quite complete. The scenic effect was heightened by a starry sky, and a moon which even outshone the one Mr. Belasco provided for his Japanese play. A refreshing breeze, too, fanned the fevered brow of an amiable audience, fluttered the kimono of the Gaiety, and rustled the branches of a flower-laden tree at one corner of the pagoda-topped stage. The one caprice of the vagrant zephyrs was to blow false mustaches into the voice of a baritone Japanese gent.

Those Jap Drinks.

Altogether it was a pretty scene. The quaint, artistic decorations transformed the gray, grim roof into an attractive garden. Tables were set about the edges, and Japs in checked jumpers which reminded of the cherry blossoms of the fall, moved actively about serving tea and other strictly Japanese drinks such as beer, cocktails and highballs.

"Isn't it deliciously Oriental?" exclaimed one thirsty and admiring lady as she skillfully juggled the cherry. Her escort enthusiastically endorsed her sentiments by telling the waiter to hurry back with some more of the same kind.

Further over on the roof, through the skylight of which Mr. Duane's soprano, in the garden below, joyously shot her high notes, were booths wherein Japanese novelties were offered for sale, and another where native magicians did stunts with bright bits of fabric, calculated to turn a pink-checked ribbon counter clerk green with envy. The operetta proved an agreeable entertainment. "The must 'Jap' Play," as the Madison Square Japanese Roof Garden, carried a characteristic charm, the lyrics by Robert L. Beecher were cleverly conceived and of considerable literary merit, and the book, by Henry Pineau and Melvin G. Winstock, while not convincingly comic, answered the purpose fairly well.

Bettina Gerard Again.

Bettina Gerard celebrated her second appearance on earth in the guise of Otoyo. While she scarcely succeeded in suggesting the shyness and daintiness of the Japanese maid she sang in better voice than she has shown in recent years, and left a pleasing impression.

Hobart Smock, in the role of a romantic young American, was stalwart and manly, and, vocally, all that could be desired. Viola Prince and Naomi Arnold were a whit weighty for gaiety girls, but their singing commended them to favor. Without undue effort James F. MacDonald was mildly humorous as the Lord Mayor of Tokio. An East Indian girl called Hermeneze contributed a graceful though rather comical dance, and Irene Jermon, after skip-

LITTLE BABY IS FOUND IN A PEW

Well-Dressed Woman Enters St. Francis Xavier's Chapel and Leaves the Infant Behind Her After Offering a Prayer.

NO CLUE TO HER IDENTITY.

A Miss Lorraine Carried the Baby to the Police Station, Where It Was Found that a Drug Had Been Used to Keep the Little One Quiet.

Trying to keep cool, rocked in a little white cradle and attended by a white-capped, white-aproned nurse in the children's pavilion of Bellevue Hospital, is a five weeks' old girl that was abandoned in a pew of the chapel connected with St. Francis Xavier's Church last evening.

It was after 6 o'clock when a woman, well-gowned in black and wearing a picture hat, entered the chapel of the church and walked a few steps toward the altar and knelt in prayer. In her arms she carried a baby, which she laid upon the seat as she moved to the altar and knelt in prayer.

A minute later she was at the door. Then she turned back and going to the pew where she had left the child, knelt. There were few persons in the place of worship at the time and they did not only passing notice to the actions of the young woman until they saw her leave the chapel without the child.

An old woman hunted up Philip Williams, the assistant sexton, and told him of the incident. When he returned a Miss Lorraine had the child and was taking care of it. Bellevue entered it held it while a policeman was sent for. Patrolman McLaughlin, of the West Thirtieth street station, was the man found.

"Really, Miss," said the policeman, "I'm afraid I'd hurt the little thing." "Why, I'll carry it to the station house," said Miss Lorraine, and she did. There the baby was turned over to Matron Travis, the caretaker of infants found in the Tenderloin. Her experienced eye told her at once that the little one had been drugged with paregoric.

The clothing of the little one was of the best. There was a long muslin dress trimmed with lace and the underwear of the child showed that the woman who had made the garments had taken a pride in her needle work.

An ambulance was called and the founding taken to Bellevue. There it was permitted to sleep off the effects of the soothing syrup, and this morning was wide awake, its little blue eyes looking in wonder at so much of its surroundings as came within the range of its vision.

The police believe the child was abandoned in the church because the mother wanted to make sure that her offspring would be brought up as she desired it to be.

Kennedy, of the East Eighty-eighth street station, the first patrolman on the list sent from the Civil Service Commission, was passed over for some reason.

Danderine

GREW THIS HAIR.

MRS. ANNIE E. SHEEHAN, Weir City, Kansas.

You must remember that falling hair and dandruff are signs of decay, or a diseased condition of the scalp, and you must not delay treatment. To do so simply means more loss of hair and a greater impoverished scalp, and finally no hair. The wise thing to do is to correct it in the start. Danderine works wonders in all such cases. It will quickly regenerate the enfeebled tissues and make your hair grow more beautiful than it ever was. NOW at all druggists, three sizes, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. PAPA—Oh, what a pain! I believe I have a fever in the heart. MAMMA—Nonsense, it isn't your heart, it's your stomach. Every time you eat this hot weather, you get a sour stomach full of hot gases and acids, and you swell up until your heart hardly has room to beat. If you were not so obstinate, you'd take my advice and keep your insides cool by taking a CASCARET Candy Cathartic every night before going to bed. They work while you sleep and keep you regular in the hottest weather.
